NMSBank Board Member Bishop Sedgwick Daniels Participates in "Day of Dialogue"

The "Day of Dialogue" opened the door for future discourse between the Black church and NBC News' editorial board.

Board Member Bishop Sedgwick Daniels was recently one of five prominent African American pastors to appear with NBC Nightly News anchor, Bryan Williams for a "Day of Dialogue", a discussion of the key issues that are currently affecting the African American community.

Williams was quoted as saying "These are men on the front lines in their communities. Given the importance of faith in our national conversation, the conversation we had can only make our work better." As an added marketing piece for this event, the world famous Times Square screens displayed a picture featuring the pastors.

As a board member for NMSBank and a minister for a substantial congregation in Milwaukee, WI, Bishop Daniels' activities are closely watched in the community.

NMSBank is a primary partner in the Bishops Creek project, which includes plans to build single-family homes, lofts, condominiums, a hotel and water park on the site of a former tannery complex near the church at W. Hampton Ave. and N. 32nd St. in Milwaukee, WI.

NMSBank is Wisconsin's oldest minority owned, full service bank. With over $80 million in assets and two locations, NMSBank was named in the top 25 minority owned banks in America by Black Enterprise magazine.
